5.1.2. Situation Analysis

During these past five (05) years, it had been observed that there is a direct correlation and link between compliance by businesses and contribution to the KZN economy.

Over the years, the Department with its regulatory partners and stakeholders had conducted numerous inspections of business within targeted economic sectors to ascertain compliance and conducted numerous programmes on awareness for businesses on the mandatory regulatory compliance requirements. Whilst this intervention has yielded some results in terms of compliance, the transformation to a fully compliant business environment is very slow.

Establishing this programme formally and with a Brand that is synonymous with compliance is very important because it will create a distinctive identity that the businesses can relate to. This programme will set a precedent for other businesses not on the programme to fully participate.

A marketing strategy will assist in extending the current foot print of this programme and has the potential to reach many businesses when implemented.
